From strength to strength - over a decade of capacity development and knowledge management

- Value proposition is anchored to the wealth of knowledge the Programme has generated since 2008.

- Combination of in-country presence and global reach allow for the scaling up of local experiences into global lessons and good practices.

- Core strengths:
  - Unparalleled expertise
  - Knowledge broker
  - Catalytic convener

A new approach for improved CDKM

- New approach made necessary by:
  - urgency in pivoting from readiness to scaled up financing and implementation
  - partner countries' raised ambitions
  - partner donors diversifying contributions

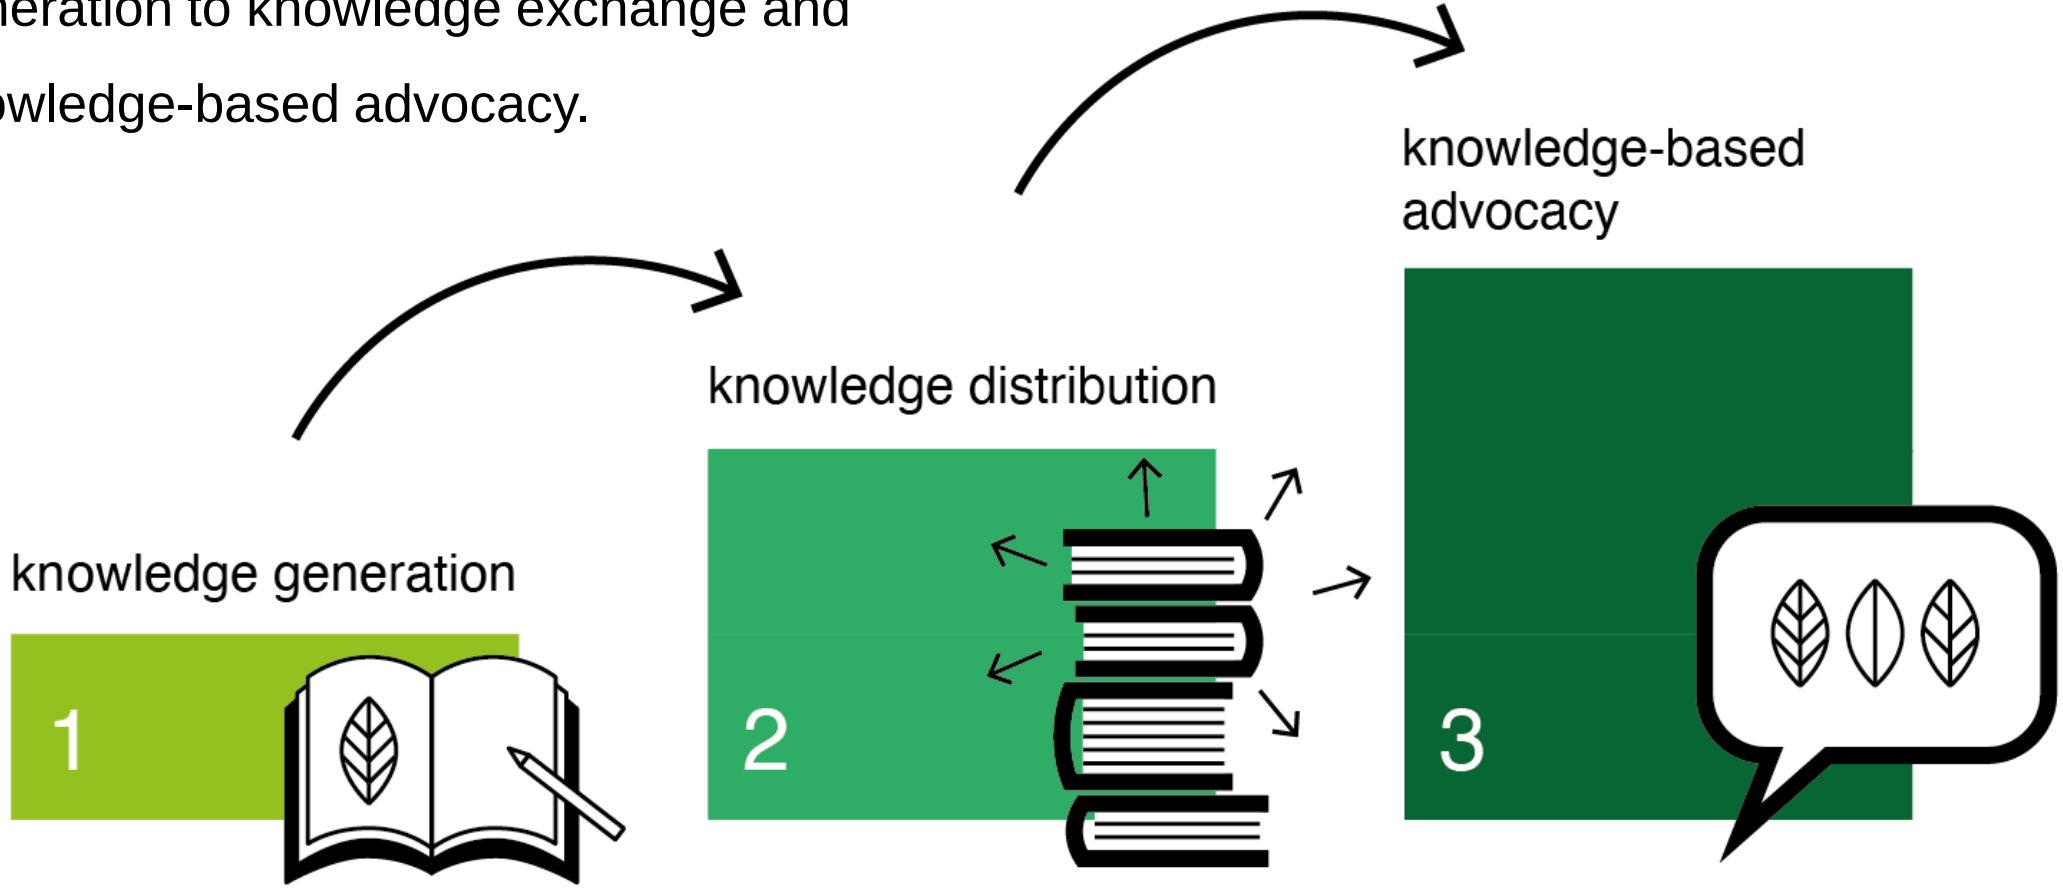
➢ Annual thematic priorities will guide all global outputs

➢ Linkages to, and leverage of, the knowledge of external partners

➢ Outputs follow a knowledge journey and are connected, coherent and sequenced

- Aligns with the Programme’s intervention principles:
  - speed, flexibility and scale

The Theory of Breakthrough builds on the idea of an intrinsically linked three-step knowledge journey from knowledge generation to knowledge exchange and knowledge-based advocacy.



Objective

Outcomes 1-3 achieved through a necessary and significant CDKM contribution that transmits knowledge and capacity to key constituencies that can operate policy and finance levers of breakthrough.

- Capacitate REDD+ practitioners
- Advocate for forest solutions by informing decision-makers
- Establish UN-REDD as CDKM go-to hub on REDD+

Dialogue

1. What are mission-critical REDD+ topics that your constituencies need increase their capacities and knowledge?

2. Who are key national, regional and global partners and fora that would benefit most from UN-REDD support on CDKM?

3. How best can UN-REDD deliver capacity development, knowledge management and knowledge-based advocacy?

- How can UN-REDD be most impactful, and best support its partner countries, by using CDKM to deliver Outcomes 1, 2 and 3 on global, regional and country levels?

2
